The 7-Day Idea Test

Put your idea in front of real strangers in a week, and leave with a verdict backed by numbers.

GO TWEAK MOVE ON

For founders who'd rather know this Friday than after six months of building. No code, no budget required.

THE RULE

Decide what counts before you look

Most idea tests fail for one reason: the founder reads the results first, then decides what they mean. Friends' compliments become "validation", three likes become "traction".

This plan works the other way round. On day 2 you write down which number you'll look at and what it has to reach. On day 7 you only read the number.

01
DAY

Write the one-line offer

Who it's for, the problem, the promise. If a stranger can't repeat it after 3 seconds, rewrite it.

For [who] who [struggle with what], [your idea] lets them [result] in [time].

_____

02
DAY

Pick one signal and set your thresholds

One action that costs the stranger something: a comment with a keyword, a reply, an email signup, a pre-order, a booked call. Not likes, not views.

My signal: _____
GO if it reaches ____ · MOVE ON if it stays under ____ · TWEAK in between

03
DAY

Build the smallest proof

One page, one post or one 30-second video that explains the offer and asks for your signal. One message, one call to action. Nothing else.

04
DAY

Show it to strangers, not friends

Friends are polite. Strangers are honest because they owe you nothing. List three places where the people you described on day 1 already spend time, and post where the rules allow it.

1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

05
DAY

Talk to everyone who answers

Ask about their past, not your future. Avoid "Would you buy this?": everyone says yes.

- When did this problem last happen to you?
- What did you do about it?
- What did that cost you, in time or money?
- What have you already tried?
- Can I show you the next version first?

06
DAY

Count, don't interpret

Write the numbers down: people reached, signals received, conversations held, people who asked "when can I get it?". No adjectives.

DAY 7

Read the verdict

Compare your count with the thresholds you wrote on day 2. Not with how you feel about the idea.

VERDICT	WHEN	WHAT YOU DO NEXT
GO	The signal reached your GO threshold, and the people who answered match the person on day 1.	Build the smallest paid version. Keep testing the offer while you build.
TWEAK	Interest, but from different people, or for a different promise than the one you wrote.	Change one thing (who, problem or promise) and run another 7 days.
MOVE ON	The signal stayed under your threshold even though people saw it.	Archive it, keep the notes, start the next idea on Monday. That's a week saved, not a failure.

Your numbers
Reached ____ · Signals ____ · Conversations ____ · Asked to buy or try ____
Verdict: GO · TWEAK · MOVE ON

> We're running this exact method on our own product, GTM Sprint, in public on @antho_nocode. The product is still being built: you'll see our real numbers, including the bad ones. Comment TEST under any video and we'll send you the next guide.
